As a result of advances in veterinary medicine, more knowledgeable care and improved nutrition, cats are now living much longer, healthier lives. However, the passage of time has its effects, and you may begin to notice that your once-frisky feline seems to have slowed down a bit.

Common changes that can occur in older cats are:

- Change in appetite
- Weight loss/gain
- Drinking more
- Stiffness, limping or difficulty jumping up
- Lethargy
- Lumps appearing
- Incontinence or soiling
- Disorientation or distress
- Changed behaviour, hiding, aggression, excessive vocalisation

It is well recognized that a healthy lifestyle, combined with early identification and management of age associated problems is the best way to approach old age to keep your pet as healthy, active and comfortable as possible. For our older pets the checks need to be more frequent, as they age more rapidly than us.

For cats over 8 years old we are now offering a full examination (at 25% discount) and blood sample (at 50% discount) whilst also giving you the opportunity to discuss any age related concerns you might have for your feline companion.
